MEETING TONIGHT

Regatta Company Members Will Convene at New Headquarters.

MATTERS TO BE CONSIDERED

Various Committee Reports Will Be Received and Acted Upon—Fishermen Taking Active Interest in Coming Regatta and Many Will Participate.

The full regatta committee will meet tonight at the new headquarters on Commercial street. It is expected that the committee on water sports, to include fishing boat races, both sailing and rowing; throwing out and picking up a net; a tug-of-war, and other sports, will be ready to submit their report and it will be formulated into the regatta program. The committee appointed to select a queen will also report and recommend some popular young lady. The committee have expressed themselves as adverse to balloting for the queen, as experience has demonstrated that it has been productive of considerable ill-feeling.

It is also expected that reports will be received from the land committee and a band selected for the occasion. It is probable that the new Astoria band will be secured. The committee on grandstand will report. The grandstand will be located at the same place as heretofore at the foot of Eleventh street, and will be so constructed in sections that it can be taken down after the regatta and used for future events. Last year the committee paid $425 for the regatta grandstand and sold it for $30, or just what the nails cost.

A number of fishermen have been interviewed the past few days, and all have promised to take an interest in the affair and participate in the races. The committee have appropriated $750 for the fishermen races and contests, and one fishing boat race will be given each day. Instead of taking a 20-mile course, requiring half a day, the course will probably be along the Oregon side of the river from Tongue point to Smith's point and return, so that the race will be visible from the docks during its progress. Heretofore, more money has been paid to outside oarsmen than to the home fishermen, and our own people have not taken much interest in the regatta. The decision of the committee to make this regatta more of a home affair, has given general satisfaction. The personnel of the committee is a guarantee that all prizes will be paid promptly, and when the event is over every dollar of indebtedness contracted will be paid, if the committee have to pay out of their own pockets. The members are all prominent business men, and cannot afford to permit the regatta to be a failure.

The firemen's tournament promises to be an important feature of the land sports and good prizes will be offered, making it an inducement for outside teams to participate. Already teams have signified their willingness to come. A firemen's tournament is a drawing card to any affair and always brings a large number of visitors. The country fair, under the management of J. Q. A. Bowlby, O. I. Peterson and F. R. Stokes, will be a unique feature of the regatta and promises to be a grand success. It is the intention to have an exhibition of Clatsop products with premiums for the best exhibits. This will include vegetables, grasses, grain, dairy and stock exhibits, and several farmers who were in the city Saturday are taking an interest in the matter and promise to bring in products.

Several outside attractions are expected. Applications were received this week and submitted to the committee. The Common council will be asked to allow the committee the exclusive use of certain streets, so that the concessions may be located at points where they will not interfere with business houses, probably south of Commercial street. The streets asked for will be all north of Duane and between Sixth and Fourteenth. This will give the regatta committee full control over the concessions and power to eliminate objectionable features. From present indications, the regatta this year will be the best ever held in the city and will be the beginning of a permanent institution under a regularly organized company of business men, in whom the public have confidence. It is not a small matter to get up a regatta, and the merchants will have to give a large portion of their time to the details and should be encouraged and assisted by everyone interested in advertising Astoria and its resources.

EDITOR BOYD HERE.

F. B. Boyd, editor-proprietor of the Astorian, with Mrs. Boyd and his little girl, arrived in the city last night from Seaside, where he has been for several weeks. This morning Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will leave for Portland on the Hassalo.

COMMENCE TRAINING TONIGHT.

Captain Fred Brown of the Astoria hose team announces that the boys will commence training for the regatta events tonight. All members of the team are requested to show up at training headquarters without fail and the services of any persons who are desirous of trying for the team will be greatly appreciated.

VICTORIA TEAM COMING.

Captain Brown of Local Hose Company Grants Concession to Victoria. Captain Fred Brown of the Astoria hose team yesterday received a letter from Victoria, in which the hose team of that place have agreed to come to Astoria during the regatta, provided Astoria will allow them to use their cart and hose. This cometh an that granted. This makes four teams already promised to come to Astoria and participate in the hose races.

FOR REGATTA PRIZE.

D. A. Brown Offers Valuable Coin to Be Used as Award. D. A. Brown, motorman on the Astoria street railway, and a collector of stamps and rare coins, will give the regatta committee a $3 gold piece, to be given as a prize in some of the races. This coin is very rare and is worth about $8. Mr. Brown always takes an active interest in the regattas and the prize offered by him will be worth competing for.

SALMON RUN LIGHT.

No Large Run Expected on Account of Absence of Freshet.

The boats brought in light catches yesterday morning and the cannery tenders report no increase in the run. Chris Olsen of Chinook was in the city and states there is no large run of fish this year, but a steady run, and that all the trappers have caught more fish up to the present time than last year. The same report comes from the up-river seiners. None of them will make any great amount of money this year unless a large run comes later in the month. Old-time fishermen predict that there will be no large run on account of there being no freshet in the river. When there is a freshet in the river lasting two or three weeks it keeps the salmon outside the river, and when it ceases they enter in the heavy runs.

WILL GO TO PORTLAND.

Boys' Brigade Preparing for Pilgrimage to Exposition City.

The date set for the boy's brigade of the First Congregational church to attend the Lewis and Clark fair is the 21st of the month and unless changed by the fair officials this will be the date. The company will leave this city on the Monday morning train or boat and return the following Saturday, spending the week on the fair grounds.

It is expected that there will be 50 or 60 boys that will take advantage of the opportunity to make the trip. The camp will be on the inside of the fair grounds, hence will be free to the boys. The entire trip will be an inexpensive one, and one that every boy should take, for it may be quite a number of years before another such opportunity is presented to see so fine an exhibition.

TO SWELL STREAMS

Millions of Young Fry to be Turned into Rivers.

GOOD WORK OF HATCHERIES

Washington State Hatcheries Will Be Operated to Full Capacity This Fall—Columbia Institutions Will Aid in Restocking River.

All of the Washington state fish hatcheries will be operated to their full capacity this fall. The hatcheries of the Columbia will do considerable toward restocking that river and the hatcheries on the various streams on Puget Sound will turn many millions of young fry into the waters as the result of the season's operations. With the exception of the chinook salmon, however, none of these hatcheries handles fish which cut a very large figure in the salmon canning industry. The steelheads and silversides are relatively of small importance as compared with the chinook salmon, and the sockeyes which are the main reliance of the canneries on Puget Sound.

An attempt is being made this year to establish the sockeye in the rivers which flow into Puget Sound. From the small hatchery established by Commissioner Kershaw, sockeye salmon are to be placed in the waters of the Nook-sack and the Skagit. If the fish return to these waters, instead of to the original spawning grounds on the Fraser when they reach maturity, then the way will be opened to insure the permanency of the salmon canning industry on the Sound. There seems to be no doubt of the result as the experiment has proven a success where salmon have been planted in other streams. The rule seems to be fairly well established that salmon invariably return to their native streams to spawn when fully matured. The waters in which the salmon fry are released and from which they make their way to the sea should be the streams to which they return when the time comes for them to reproduce the race.
